Customized programs for corporations, universities, and governmental bodies from all over the world

The Michigan State University English Language Center (ELC) is located in the heart of MSU's beautiful campus in the safe Midwestern city of East Lansing, Michigan. The ELC was established in 1961 and has been offering English language instruction and customized special programs since that time.

ELC faculty all have Masters degrees in Teaching English as a Second Language or related fields, and they have many years of experience in teaching English to students of all ages. The ELC, in collaboration with both on-campus and off-campus partners, has designed and taught numerous types of special programs over the last fifty plus years.

Special program participants get to experience life at a major American University and have access to every facility and activity as regularly admitted MSU students. In addition to exposure to campus life, participants are provided with many opportunities to get to know the local area and interact with the community. They can take part in local festivals and events, and they can sign up for ELC organized trips to the Great Lakes, Detroit, and Chicago. They are invited to the weekly coffee hours sponsored by MSU’s Office for International Students and Scholars, and they can join one (or more) of the more than 700 student clubs at MSU.

The ELC would love to have a chance to create a special program for you.
